

Emergency First Aid at Work

The course is appropriate to low-risk workplaces and small sites, where a first aid needs risk assessment has identified a need for Emergency First Aiders. This one-day Emergency First Aid at Work course provides learners with the skills to keep someone safe until the emergency services arrive. The course covers basic life-saving skills required, including assessing the scene, the unconscious patient and major bleeds.

This course meets the Health and Safety Executive's requirements for one or more emergency first aiders in the workplace.
